

Effective management of IT assets is a complex operation. Asset management professionals must control these resources, ensuring operational efficiency, reducing vendor compliance risk and anticipating future needs.

Professional certification from BCS

Our asset management certification portfolio addresses the complexity of this key business practice, equipping IT and software asset managers with the skills to implement and maintain a robust and effective programme.

Based on industry best practice, the BCS certifications cover optimisation across an organisation, throughout all the stages of the lifecycle, from initial business requirement up to and including retirement.

IT asset management

Designed for IT and non-IT professionals, ITAM benefits a range of roles including those responsible for procurement as well as contract, security, financial, risk and project management functions.

Foundation – this BCS/EXIN certification covers all the major sub-sets of IT, software, hardware, cloud services, people and information.

Software asset management

SAM involves managing and optimising software licenses. The BCS SAM certifications look at reducing vendor audit risk, increasing end user productivity and optimising the use of these valuable assets.

Specialist – this BCS/EXIN certification covers SAM best practice, including ISO 19770-1 alignment, implementing and managing lifecycle processes, and demonstrating how SAM and service management link together for transparent licensing.

Practitioner - understand the enhanced principles and techniques required to manage software related risks, maintain software licenses and ensure return on investment – with a focus on continuous improvement and stakeholder management.
